FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

REVLON ANNOUNCES SUBSCRIPTION PRICE AND OFFERING TERMS FOR ITS RIGHTS OFFERING

NEW YORK, May 13, 2003 - Revlon, Inc. (NYSE: REV) today announced, in conjunction with its previously-announced rights offering, the subscription price and the number of shares of its Class A common stock or Class B common stock required to be held on the record date in order to be entitled to receive a subscription right, each of which will entitle the holder to subscribe for one share of Class A common stock.

Pursuant to the rights offering, Revlon will distribute, at no charge, as of the close of business on May 12, 2003 (the "Record Date"), one transferable subscription right for each 2.9403 shares of Class A common stock or Class B common stock held by each stockholder of record, subject to rounding down to eliminate fractional rights. Each subscription right will enable rights holders to purchase one share of Revlon's Class A common stock at a subscription price of $2.84 per share. In addition, an over-subscription privilege has been included pursuant to which each rights holder that exercises its basic subscription privilege in full may also subscribe for additional shares at the same subscription price of $2.84 per share, to the extent that other rights holders do not exercise their subscription rights in full. If an insufficient number of shares is available to fully satisfy the over-subscription privilege requests, the available shares will be sold pro-rata among subscription rights holders who exercised their over-subscription privilege, based on the number of shares each subscription rights holder subscribed for under the basic subscription privilege.

The proceeds of the rights offering will be used for general corporate purposes, including to help fund a portion of the costs and expenses associated with implementing the stabilization and growth phase of Revlon's business plan, which involves increasing the effectiveness of advertising and promotional spending, increasing the effectiveness of the Company's in-store wall displays, discontinuing select products and adjusting prices on several other products, further strengthening the new product development process, and investing in training and development for Revlon employees.

The subscription rights are transferable. While Revlon cannot provide assurances that a trading market will develop, the subscription rights are expected to trade on the NYSE under the symbol "REV RT".

MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings Inc., Revlon's principal indirect stockholder, which is wholly-owned by Ronald O. Perelman, has agreed not to exercise its basic subscription privilege. Instead, it has agreed to purchase, in a private placement directly from Revlon, the shares of the Class A common stock that it would otherwise have been entitled to receive pursuant to its basic subscription privilege in the rights offering (equal to approximately 83% of the shares available for purchase under the subscription rights distributed in the rights offering, or approximately $41.5 million). MacAndrews & Forbes has also agreed not to exercise its over-subscription privilege in the rights offering. However, if any shares remain following the exercise of the basic subscription privilege and the over-subscription privilege by other rights holders, MacAndrews & Forbes will back-stop the rights offering by purchasing, in a private placement directly from Revlon, the remaining shares of Class A common stock offered but not purchased by other rights holders (up to approximately 17% of the shares offered in the rights offering, or an additional approximate $8.5 million). As a result of this back-stop, Revlon is assured of raising $50 million in gross proceeds through a combination of the rights offering and the sale of shares, in a private placement, to MacAndrews & Forbes.

Revlon expects that rights offering materials, including a prospectus and the subscription rights certificates, will be mailed on or about May 16, 2003, to stockholders of record as of the Record Date. The prospectus will contain important information about the rights offering. Stockholders are urged to read the prospectus when it becomes available. Rights holders will have until the expiration date of the rights offering to exercise or sell their subscription rights. Revlon expects that the expiration date of the rights offering will be on June 16, 2003, unless extended by Revlon.
